

What is a Double Degree Program?

It's a kind of international cooperation among universities of different countries, when two institutions having their own curricula and programs develop mutual ones and the student studying one year in the university of his/her country continues education abroad in a partner university and at the end of study gets united double degree diploma.

The high quality of the joint programs becomes available by the combination of the material and intellectual resources of two universities.

This kind of learning does not extend the period of study.

Eligibility Requirements

The program is open to any student who:

- Received a bachelor's degree;*
- Is fluent in English;*
- Is interested in acquiring knowledge in the field of Cultural Management and is willing to act in the international environment.*

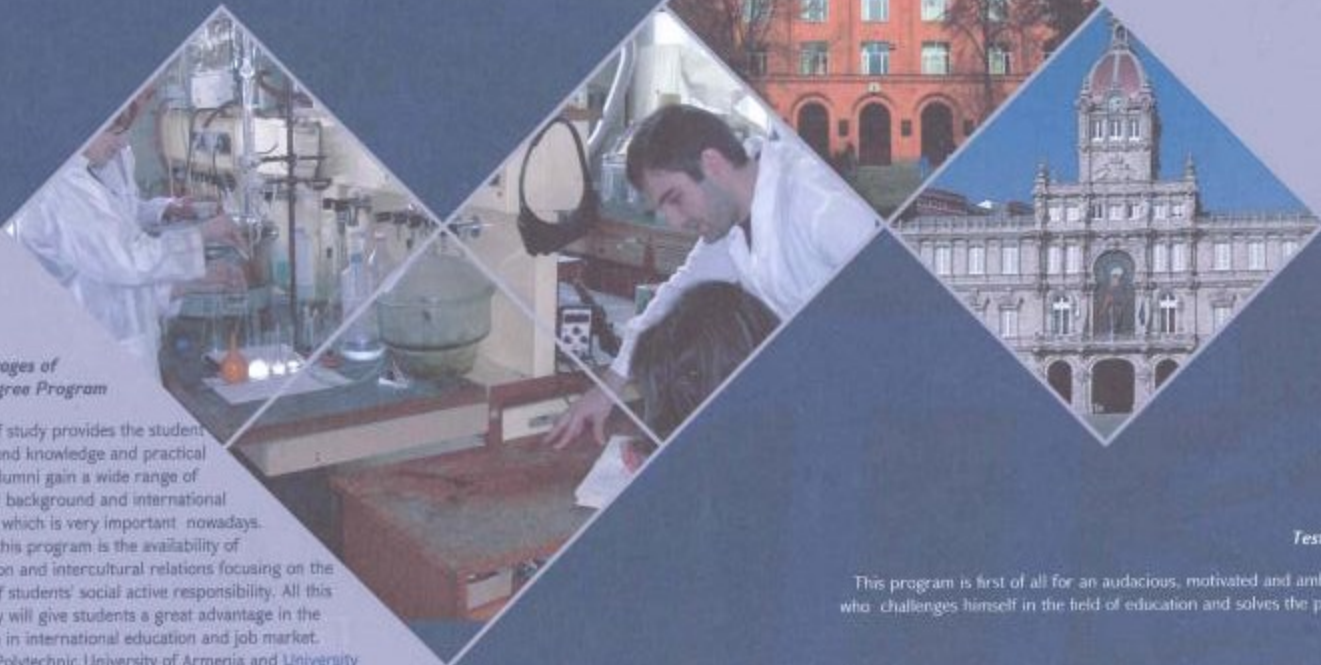

The Advantages of Double Degree Program

This form of study provides the students with profound knowledge and practical skills. The alumni gain a wide range of professional background and international experience which is very important nowadays. The aim of this program is the availability of self-education and intercultural relations focusing on the formation of students' social active responsibility. All this undoubtedly will give students a great advantage in the future, both in international education and job market.

National Polytechnic University of Armenia and University of Coimbra (Spain) in the framework of Tempus program have signed an agreement of cooperation aiming at accomplishing joint Master degree program in the specialization of "Environmental Protection".

Test Your Abilities

This program is first of all for an audacious, motivated and ambitious student, who challenges himself in the field of education and solves the problem of self-confidence.
